

ASI Communicator
Dealer BETA Test Program

BETA Test Agreement

This agreement is between the Dealer whose name and authorization appears below (hereafter, The Dealer) and ASI Communications, Inc. (hereafter, ASI)

Whereas The Dealer desires to become a BETA Tester for the "ASI Communicator" Broadband Communicator (the Unit), an Internet Communications device intended to relay signals from an Alarm Panel to the Alarm Monitoring Center utilizing a Broadband Internet connection.

The ASI Communicator must NOT be installed in an environment where the possibility of a communication failure will result in or increase property or casualty losses. In the event the Unit is installed as a primary communications in a real installation (not a "bench test") it is recommended that the Unit be installed with a Back Up Communicator, like an AES radio.

The Dealer will not be charged for monitoring of this account during the BETA Test period, however the Dealer must return the ASI Communicator to ASI Communications, Inc. for firmware updates or hardware replacement if requested by ASI (such request may be verbal or written). It is understood that if firmware updates or hardware replacement is required but not completed, the Communicator may be rendered non-functional.

The Monitoring Center may prevent any communicator from communicating at any time and will respond to signals deemed "alarm events" at its sole discretion.

Communicator problems and suggestions must be reported to support@azsecurity.com.

By signing this agreement, the Dealer agrees to the above terms and conditions and will defend and hold harmless, ASI Communications, Inc. and its subsidiaries, for any and all losses that may occur due to the failure of this communication device during the BETA Test Period.
